Permanent roaming or anomalous or abusive use

Permanent roaming or anomalous or abusive use of wholesale roaming access for purposes other than the provision of regulated roaming services to roaming providers' ("HPMN's") customers while the latter are periodically travelling within the Union is prohibited and the violation will be charged as specified in the agreement. This charge will be invoiced separately on a monthly or yearly basis afterwards.

As an example an IMSI in a M2M/IoT unit roaming in Elisa's network for more than 14 days within a month or 30 days within a year; or any service offering targeted to customers residing in Elisa's licensed operating area ("Finland") using wholesale roaming access are criteria for the charging. When Elisa detects permanent roaming or anomalous or abusive use of wholesale roaming access it will give a notice at least 14 days before applying the charging during which period the HPMN may correct its behavior to avoid the charging.

Duration of the Agreement

When the agreement comes into force it shall remain in force unless terminated by one of the parties in writing subject to a notice period of six months or terminated as per the conditions stipulated in the direct wholesale roaming access agreement.

Modifications to the Reference Offer

This reference offer will be updated as a minimum on an annual basis in order to update the regulated prices. If new methods of roaming access become available, Elisa Corporation will update this reference offer and amend any existing direct wholesale roaming access agreements to reflect such new methods of roaming access, including the processing of requests and access to necessary facilities.
